

BLOODSHED IN CHICAGO TODAY

Strikers Resent The Arrival Of Strike Breakers From Other Cities.

POLICE ARE WORKING VERY HARD

It Is Almost Impossible To Tell What The Day Will Bring--Both Sides Are Desperate-- Conflicts Frequent.

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.)
Chicago, Ill., May 1.—May day opened on the third week of the teamsters' strike with premonitions of strife in the streets. Yesterday's conferences of the strike leaders developed no alternative but to continue the struggle to the bitter end, for no signs for conciliation was vouchsafed from the employers, who are relentless in their determination to destroy the teamsters' unions.

Colored Strike-Breakers
This morning five hundred colored strike-breakers arrived on a special train from St. Louis. Under the leadership of F. J. Farley, the well-known strike-breaker, they are guarded by forty armed detectives. It is reported the negroes will be sworn in as deputy United States marshals and paid $2.50 per day to drive the wagons. This is an element most likely to precipitate disorder.

All Police Are Out
All the available strength of the police department, a thousand men, was thrown into the struggle this morning. Chief O'Neill says there will be no temporization and all disorder must stop. The police will search all suspects for concealed weapons and make arrests in every case where found.

Contempt Proceedings
Contempt proceedings will be begun today against those accused of violation of the federal injunction. The spread of the strike to the stockyards is expected today. Sergeant Richard Cummings, who was run down by a union teamster on Friday, died this morning.

More Strikers
A hundred and thirty additional teamsters struck this morning. The largest body was employed by Durand & Kasper, the wholesale grocers. The men refused to deliver goods to the boycotted houses. Clarence Dugan, who has been retained to defend the labor leaders indicted by the April grand jury.

Farley on Hand
"Strike-breaker" Farley arrived here from New York and had a conference with the representatives of the employers. It is understood he will be placed in charge of all strike-breakers. Farley won the subway strike in New York city and the railway strike in Chicago. The strike-breakers who arrived from St. Louis were distributed at the barns of the Employers' Teaming company without being molested. A hundred strike-breakers employed by the express companies went on strike this morning to enforce a demand for five dollars a day for drivers and four dollars a day for helpers. The increase was granted and the men returned to work.

Arrested Soldiers
While passing the city hall at 11 o'clock a caravan of wagons was assailed by the crowd with missiles and eggs filled with acid. The negro drivers drew their revolvers, but were arrested before any shots were fired. Lieutenant Hawkins and fifty members of the Eighth Illinois National Guard, colored, were placed on guard duty at the docks of the International Salt company this morning without uniforms. The police made a descent upon the soldiers, took their guns away and arrested two who resisted.

Release Non-Union Men
Thirty drivers of the Patterson Coal company joined the strike today. All the non-union drivers were arrested for carrying weapons, were released and went back to work.

General Effort to Move Wagons
The plans of merchants for business today are not clearly defined. A general attempt will be made among the wholesalers to move wagons. They will be manned by non-union drivers, under the protection of the federal injunction. The movement of these wagons commenced at daylight.

"We have purchased many wagons and we have men enough to make deliveries for almost all the firms needing help," said Victor W. Sincere, representing the Employers' Teaming company. "More horses will be purchased, and, as we need them, more men will be hired. It is not expected that we will meet with any serious interference in making deliveries."

It is not likely that the retail stores of State street will try to do much in the way of deliveries. The region they must cover is the whole city, and it is deemed impracticable at present to devote riot in such a manner. The wholesalers' field is restricted to the downtown district and the freight depots.

More Police on Strike Duty.
Supt. O'Neill and Assistant Chief Schuetzler held a long conference in the city hall. They decided to increase to 950 men the strength of the police force on strike duty. While these men are engaged, actively in guarding the employers' wagons, a thousand more will be held in reserve, ready on a minute's notice to be summoned.

The chief also decided to take drastic measures to keep out what he calls the "gun evils."
"Every man carrying a gun or weapon of any kind, whether a striker or not, will be arrested," he said. "Mayor Dunne's proclamation has given us authority to act, and in no uncertain manner. Every striker, teamster or picket will be 'fanned' for weapons, and if they are found they not only will be confiscated, but the person carrying them will be arrested on the charge of carrying concealed weapons."

Expects to Fill Police Courts.
"We have made no new plans other than to increase the number of men on strike duty," said Assistant Chief Schuetzler. "It is impossible to make any plans under these circumstances. We expect to fill the police courts with men who are now roaming the streets and shooting at random whenever they get excited."

Attorney Dudley Taylor of the Employers' association said he was prepared to prosecute the cases in the police courts as fast as the men were arrested. He announced that it was his intention to insist, whenever possible, upon immediate trials, despite the tendency of the attorneys for the arrested men to delay the hearings indefinitely.

While the legal forces of the employers were thus planning vigorous prosecutions, the union leaders likewise were taking steps to enlist the services of more attorneys. Demands were made at the meeting of the labor federation that strike breakers should not be allowed to carry revolvers and "razors."

Spread of Strikes Expected.
It is not expected that the strike leaders will meet the aggressive moves of the employers otherwise than in the manner pursued during the last week. Discharges will be the signal for strikes, and it is probable that several large additions will be made to the number of teamsters already out.

There were rumors that the employers, tired of waiting for the union moves, were on the point of declaring a general lockout of their drivers. This was denied, however, by John G. Shedd, who referred to the idea as unwise.

May Avoid Strike at Yards.
Stockyard packers believe a strike of their teamsters can be avoided, according to statements made by officials of various companies. There is no disposition on the part of the packers to "force the issue," it was said, and efforts will be made by the companies to avoid precipitating a conflict.

In the event that it became necessary to take sides teamsters who refused to deliver meat wherever sent probably would be discharged, it was said, although no agreement had been reached on this point between the various houses. No conference of the packers was held.

Soldiers Held in Readiness.
Enlisted men at Fort Sheridan were notified not to absent themselves from the post without permission. Although the officers profess not to believe that they will receive any directions to proceed with their troops to Chicago to maintain the federal injunction against striking teamsters, every preparation has been made for the transfer of the soldiers to this city at a moment's notice.

A few soldiers are allowed to go to Highland, a mile away, but all permits to visit Chicago are denied. Clothing and arms have been inspected carefully, and the campaign tents of the troops are being aired.

"We do not expect to get orders to go to Chicago," said one of the officers, "but it is well to be prepared for any unforeseen contingency."

(SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.)
London, May 1.—A dispatch from Warsaw says a collision between citizens and troops this afternoon resulted in sixty casualties. A crowd of several thousand were marching through the streets carrying red flags and were charged by the cavalry which used their swords savagely. The infantry also fired several volleys. Many people fell and the crowds scattered. Thirty-one were reported killed and fifteen wounded. The injured were removed to the hospitals, large crowds assembling near the scene and further bloodshed was imminent.

Railway Ambulances.
Railway carriages transformable into ambulance compartments for the use of passengers who have taken ill have been provided on the Prussian railways for express routes.

ARMY CAPTAIN TRIES TO KILL

SUCCEEDS IN ENDING HIS LIFE

Twice Shoots Man With Whom He Had Served in the Philippines, Seriously Wounding Him, and Then Commits Suicide.

Salt Lake, Utah, May 1.—Capt. W. A. Raibourn, Twenty-ninth infantry, U. S. A., committed suicide at Fort Douglas Sunday after making a murderous assault on Lieut. William H. Point, also of the Twenty-ninth infantry.

Point was shot twice by his superior officer, one bullet penetrating his left thigh and another inflicting a deep flesh wound in his right leg. After Lieut. Point had fallen Capt. Raibourn turned his revolver upon himself, sending a bullet into his head about three inches behind his right ear. He died almost instantly.

Absent From Post.
On Tuesday of last week Capt. Raibourn was appointed officer of the day at Fort Douglas, but failed to report for duty and was absent in the city twenty-four hours without leave. He was arrested the following day, but was given the privileges of the fort under orders not to leave the grounds. Saturday evening Capt. Raibourn broke the parole and came to the city. Lieut. Point, who was sent after him with an ambulance, found him in a saloon, and he was returned to Fort Douglas under arrest. He was ordered to remain in his quarters.

Seeks to Stop Shooting.
Lieut. Point's quarters are only two doors from those which Capt. Raibourn occupied. The lieutenant had just stepped out of doors early Sunday, when Capt. Raibourn appeared, carrying a revolver. His manner was threatening and Point said:

"Now, captain, don't do anything foolish."

Raibourn made no reply, but immediately began shooting. When other officers and soldiers ran out doors from those which Capt. Raibourn lay dead and Lieut. Point lay in front of his quarters. Lieut. Point was taken to his quarters. He is said to be resting well. Raibourn's body was embalmed at the post hospital and was shipped to Oakland City, Ind., where his mother and two sisters reside. He has a brother in Chicago.

Sought to Avoid Court Martial.
Capt. Raibourn had sought to avoid a court martial, and had forwarded to Washington his resignation from the army. It had not been accepted, and it was supposed that a trial by court martial awaited him. Worry over the probability of a dishonorable discharge from the army and dissipation are believed to have unbalanced his mind. Capt. Raibourn, who was 35 years old and unmarried, enlisted in the army in 1891 as a private and had worked his way up from the ranks. Capt. Raibourn and Lieut. Point had served together in the Philippines and were firm friends.

It is expected that the camp will be moved back to the East Divide today. He would receive a petition from the strikers, but they would be told that he cannot intervene in a local struggle.

EASTER UKASE IS WELL LIKED

Establishes Religious Freedom In Czar's Domain For All The People.

THE RUSSIAN POLICY IS REVERSED

Emperor's Act Affects Four Hundred and Five Million People Who Are Members Of Orthodox Church.

St. Petersburg, May 1.—Thinking Russians generally concur in the belief that the religious freedom by the czar in his Easter ukase is the greatest concession to individual liberty since the liberation of the serfs.

The ukase will benefit 30,000,000 believers in the old faith, 12,000,000 non-conformists, and about 40,000,000 of alien faith, including Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Protestants, Mohammedans and Buddhists.

Logically the ukase involves a complete reversal of Russian policy of seeking national unity in conquered provinces by compelling religious unity.

Liberty of conscience has been repeatedly proclaimed, and Procurator Pobedonostzeff, in his famous reply to the evangelical petition of 1888, contended that it existed in the empire. The fact is that, as a trying place, all religions have been tolerated in Russia, but none has been allowed to trespass upon the orthodox faith. People were free to remain true to the religion of their fathers, but were forbidden to make proselytes. Everybody might enter, but none might leave the orthodox church without forfeiting all civil rights, including the right to inherit property; and in the train of that policy persecutions of every conceivable character were directed against the "raskolniki" or dissident sects, especially the old believers.

Offshoots of Orthodoxy.

Among the raskolniki are numbered a thousand and one queer and rustic heresies bred of the great schism caused by the reform of the ancient liturgy and augmented by the suppression of the patriarchate by Peter the Great. The old believers, who clung to the old liturgy and made the sign of the cross with three fingers instead of two, was broken up into numerous sects, some discarding priests and sacraments, and sometimes tending towards free love and immoral practices, while others instituted an episcopate and priesthood of their own and dealt with all innovations from the west as inventions of the anti-Christ, eschewing tea, coffee and sugar, and considering shaving wicked.

These latter survived countless persecutions for years, without legal recognition of marriages conducted by their priests, but nevertheless became commercially the ablest class in Russia. Morality and wealth were the result.

CONTINUE CAROUSAL AFTER MAN IS KILLED

Police Find Crowd Drinking in Saloon, While Body of Victim Lies Where It Had Fallen.

Muncie, Ind., May 1.—Grover Richardson, aged 22, was shot and instantly killed by William Senegal in the latter's saloon in Wheeling, twelve miles north of here. A number of men were gambling when a dispute arose. Senegal drew a revolver and fired, the bullet passing through Richardson's chest and continuing into the stomach. The Muncie police, who reached the place an hour later, found the man still drinking, the body of the murdered man remaining where he fell. Senegal and his bartender, Ferdinand Richel, were arrested and brought to Muncie.

Upon the arrival of the police at the scene of the murder Senegal again pulled his revolver and was not disarmed and arrested until after a terrific fight. Young Richardson is reported to have been inveigled into the saloon where the trouble was later started in which he was killed.

The police were informed that Richardson was endeavoring to break into Senegal's place and was mistaken for a burglar. This story is disputed by men who claim they were present and saw the killing.

The murder has created a great sensation in Wheeling, owing to the fact that Richardson was a popular young man and is known to have had considerable money. The murdered man's parents reside in Pennsylvania. Senegal has a bad reputation for years.

Thickness of Skin.
The skin of the men and women of some nations is much thicker than that of others, particularly in hot countries. The Central African negro has a skin about half as thick again as that of a European. That of a negro is thickest over the head and back—evidently to form a protection from the sun.

crets of their strength. This branch of the old believers includes merchant princes of Moscow rivaling those of America, but they have never ceased to be regarded as apostates from the orthodox church, and have been subjected to all sorts of legal persecutions as such.

Many Queer Practices.

The humblest dissenters have had a much harder time, being hunted down until secretly they gave rise to a brood of strange sects. One preached redemption by suicide and a fiery or bloody baptism; others worshipped images of Napoleon as the Messiah, believing he escaped to Siberia and would return some day and establish a reign of justice and peace, and still others, like the "Jumpers and Adamites," which are now practically wiped out, indulged in most licentious rites. The Stundists and Molkans of southern Russia, now the principal native nonconformists, who might be described as the Quakers of Russia, have made tremendous progress in recent years in spite of persecution, which often has driven them eastward and made them pioneers of Russian colonization. There are in all about 12,000,000 of these dissenters.

Affects 40,000,000 People.

The emperor's act will also affect about 40,000,000 belonging to alien faiths, such as the Jews, Catholics and Lutherans of Poland, and the Baltic provinces, the Protestants of Finland, and the followers of Islam and Buddha in the Ural, the Crimea, the Caucasus, Turkestan and central Asia.

While the emperor's approval of the action of the committee of ministers distinctly holds to orthodoxy as the state religion and creates the usual commission to work out many details in connection with the offspring of mixed marriages during minority, legitimization of marriages, registration of deaths and births, it also rescinds a number of acts aimed specifically at various religions and establishes the principle of absolute freedom of worship and the right of every Russian who becomes of age to change his confession of faith, in which the assurance of religious freedom lies. It also contemplates relief of Catholics and Poles from the present vexatious restrictions as to preaching the catechism, the Russian language, etc.

Irkutsk, Siberia, May 1.—On account of the inadequacy of accommodations for the wounded soldiers from Manchuria, of whom there are 29,000 here, and more are arriving daily, clubhouses and schoolhouses have been converted into hospitals. Provisions, and especially bread, are scarce, owing to the military pressure on the trans-siberian railroad.

A TRIBUTE TO MISS WILLARD

REV. VAUGHAN SPOKE OF HER LIFE AND DEEDS.

LAST ADDRESS GIVEN HERE

State of Illinois Called Her Its Most Illustrious Deceased Citizen.

Last evening Rev. Vaughan spoke on "Modern Heroine of Faith." His subject was Frances Willard and he recalled to mind the facts of her life that are of especial interest to Janesville people, she having made this city her home for a number of years in her childhood. His sermon was preluded with stereopticon illustrations. Among the pictures was a photograph of the statue erected to her memory by the state of Illinois in the Hall of Fame at Washington and one of herself, familiar to all who are familiar with temperance work. His remarks were as follows:

In the Hall of Fame
The most extraordinary honor accorded a woman in the annals of American history was recently accorded a Janesville girl. In the Capitol at Washington is a Hall of Fame to which each state may contribute the statues of its two most distinguished citizens. The state of Illinois passed by a long line of statesmen, jurists, warriors, and those whom its legislators deemed citizens, Frances E. Willard, the unknown, queen of purity and temperance. And today the statue of this gifted and radiant leader of American womanhood, carved in Carrara marble by another Wisconsin girl, stands side by side with George Washington of Virginia.

Inscription on Pedestal
Upon the pedestal are inscribed these words from one of her addresses: "Ah, it is women who have given the costliest hostages to fortune. Out into the battle of life they have sent their best beloved, with fearful odds against them. Oh, by the dangers they have dared; by the hours of patient watching over beds where helpless children lay; by the incense of ten thousand prayers wafted from their gentle lips to heaven, I charge you to give them power to protect along life's treacherous highway those whom they have so loved."

"The Forest Home"
The story of this precious woman, who has obtained such prominent honor, deserves to be often retold, certainly in the community where her childhood was spent. She was born in the state of New York and five of her earliest years were spent in Ohio. When a girl of seven, however, she came with her parents to the little house on the banks of the river Rock, which they called "Forest Home," and where for twelve years they resided. "To me it has often seemed," she wrote long afterward, "as if those earlier years were 'seed of all my after good.' I thank Thee, oh bountiful God, that I have not forgotten, cannot forget, I thank Thee, that wherever I may dwell no place can be so dear, so completely enfolded in my heart, so truly the best-beloved of all to me as 'Forest Home.'"

Kin to All Christians
The first of all schools she attended is the little district school beyond the Institute for the Blind. Later she studied in Milwaukee, but most of all in Evanston. She attended Sunday school in our old Methodist church and one of her teachers is still with us. "I have always believed in Christ," she said, nevertheless at the age of twenty she passed through a religious crisis when she said, "Yes to God," and united with the Methodist church. She was kin to all Christians, however, and we all claim her. A great grandfather was forty years a Baptist minister. When she stood in his home and looked out on Mt. Monadnock she remarked, "These are the old haunts from which I received my original fibers." Earlier still her ancestry were Congregationalists and Church of England.

Into W. C. T. U. Work
She began her public career by teaching in a primitive red school-house ten miles from Chicago. Eventually she became dean of the woman's college of Northwestern university, a position which she resigned because of divergent opinions with the president. Shortly afterward she received on the same day two letters. One offered her a large salary as the head of an eastern school; the other offered her the presidency of the Chicago Woman's Christian Temperance union. The latter assured her no salary and meant at times actual hunger, but she accepted it. Finally in 1879 she became president of the national organization and began nearly twenty years of flaming propaganda for "God and Home and Native Land." Her last public address was in Janesville. Six weeks later, in 1897, she died in New York city, with the words on her lips, "How beautiful it is to be with God."

Girded With Culture
Such a life is replete with instruction. We note the thoroughness of her preparation. It began in her ancestry and was continued in her home. Her parents were noble and intelligent Christians. She received the best the schools could give her. She was versed in literature and fond of the sciences. She believed in evolution and in the modern historical criticism of the Bible. She was able to lead it, because she had girded herself with its culture. Her life says to the girls of America, "Get ready." It's only preparation of heart and brain which can make woman in our great new age a force in human life whether it be in private or public sphere.

Her Fight Aggressive
Her aggressiveness also arrests our attention. She lived a forceful, not an insipid, life. An incident of her school days bears witness to her volcanic nature. Her father, with a man's faculty, insisted on choosing his daughter's headgear. A red cap in particular so stirred the mockery of her mates that Frances crumpled the chief offender under a seat and went defiantly on her way. After all, character without combatativeness is fruit without acid. There is needed intelligent direction and achievements will follow. The plea of evil in every age is the plea of the demons whom Christ exorcised. "Let us alone." But Frances Willard could not and did not leave it alone. Intemperance, she fought it with the omnipotent power of woman's love. She fought it with the moral influences of home and church, with instruction in the schools, with the strong arm of prohibitory law. Impurity, she fought it as the chief of perils. "A white life for two" was her demand, that men as well as women live pure lives. Wherever there was a wrong against the home there was the eloquent voice of Frances Willard uplifted. So statesmanlike was her vision that Edward Everett Hale declares, her annual messages to her constituents better worth the reading than the messages of our presidents for the same period.

Of Charitable Nature
Her charity was as conspicuous as her aggressiveness. She was the aggressiveness of the sunlight, genial and curative. She was a conscience aflame but aflame with love. There was not a trace of fanaticism about her. She never indulged in harsh and bitter invective even against those whom she believed the enemies of society. All classes loved her. Beecher truly characterized her, "An incarnate and resistless argument for the complete emancipation of woman and for everything else that was good."

Was an Optimist
Her hopefulness also deeply impresses all students of her life. If ever the world had an optimist it was Frances Willard. For the best which stands in Willard Hall, Chicago, Whittier wrote these lines:

"She knew the power of banded ill, But felt that love was stronger still And organized for doing good, The world's united womanhood."
Through all her career it was confidence in the ultimate triumph of love which sustained her. Only the Golden Rule of Christ can bring in the Golden Age of Man, but she was certain that it would finally do so. "The mental and spiritual attitudes of good cheer and heavenly expectation are the only ones that will ever claim, promote and capture victory." In her creed a day is coming when society shall be fully redeemed and no where upon earth shall there be a saloon, a gambling-place, a haunt of infamy. In this faith she lived and labored and in this faith she died. As members of the community where she was reared we join with the state of Illinois in recognition of the splendor and power of her life. But the noblest tribute which we can bring is to continue her work and to make true her dreams of a better world.

MINISTERS TAKE TIMELY SUBJECT

The Defalcation of Frank Bigelow Was the Sunday Subject

In Many Cities.
Chicago and Milwaukee pastors yesterday took for their Sunday sermon texts the defalcation of Frank Bigelow of the Milwaukee bank. Strong lessons were taught, and here are some of the sentiments expressed:

"Riches are a curse if wrongfully used, but a blessing if put to good purposes."
"We should not be puffed up because we ourselves have escaped, for temptation in various forms comes to every person alike."
"Money making is a vocation bringing as great honor as the use of one's talents in any other way."

Smith Drug Co. have the local agency for Wadsworth Bros. Cigars, and say they never before had a cigar in their stock that gave such universal satisfaction. Try one and you will thank them for introducing it in Janesville.

NORTHWESTERN IS REWEIGHING CARS

Find That Vehicles 'Shrink in Weight' With Few Years Usage and Wear.

In order to more correctly weigh railroad shipments, for the better satisfaction of customers and themselves, the Northwestern railroad company are now reweighing all their cars. The need of this work about every two years is shown by the figures stenciled on the cars at the time of their completion at the shops and weight of them after a score of months' hard service. The wood portions shrink and are chipped considerably and there is a continual wear and tear on the metal parts which generally lightens a car. In some instances there may be a loss all the way from a few pounds to a ton per car to the railroad company. Assistant Superintendent P. D. Pendle is carrying on this work of reweighing and restenciling.

WAREHOUSES ARE FINISHING WORK

Other Than That Fact There is Little New in Tobacco Markets of Southern Wisconsin.

In regard to the situation on the tobacco market of Janesville and southern Wisconsin the only new fact is that the warehouses are closing down for the season. A. N. Jones, who commenced earlier than many others in the work of packing this year was the first to close down, which he did a week ago. Other tobacco handlers will cease work within the next few weeks. Other conditions, the seeking of binder stock, the cleaning up of the seed beds and the laying out of the seed beds and the talk of high prices for tobacco next year—continue in the same old ruts which these subjects have occupied for two weeks past. Few movements were effected in the Janesville market last week as is shown by the following report: Fisher & Fisher bought 73cs of 1903, 75 of 1904; disposed of 100cs of 1902 and 26 boxes of 1903. M. F. Green shipped 2 cars of old goods and T. E. Welsh shipped to the east 2 cars of 1904 fillers and 1 car of 1901.

Wm. Spitzer of New York, and H. W. Child of Edgerton were here Tuesday; and H. McInnes, also of Edgerton, was here Tuesday.

Twenty-eight carloads, making together 400 cases, were shipped out of storage from Edgerton last week.

JANESVILLE MEN GO AS STRIKE BREAKERS

Agents for the Chicago Teaming Company Seek Recruits Here.

It is currently reported that agents for the Employers' Teaming Association and agents in the city yesterday seeking strike breakers to go to Chicago today to take the place of the union teamsters who are out on a strike. It is reported a dozen young men were found who would be glad to take the two dollars and a half a day offered for steering the big wagons through the Chicago streets under police protection and left this morning for the scene of their labors. The Chicago Tribune says of this phase of the strike this morning:

"Believing the importation of non-union teamsters to fill the vacancies caused by the strike will begin on a large scale, detective agencies and employment bureaus in all parts of the country have recruited men for an emergency, and the Employers' Teaming company and strike bound business houses have been deluged with telegrams offering workers."

"The Employers' company alone received more than 200 telegrams Saturday from different agencies offering to supply immediately from 50 to 800 men. Reports spread through the country of the extent of the strike have given foundation for this belief and action on the part of the agencies."

Offers Men Weighing 200 Pounds.
"An advertisement published in a Pittsburgh newspaper called for 100 able-bodied men not less than six feet tall and weighing at least 200 pounds each. A telegram from this agency received by the Employers' company read: 'Have fifty experienced strike breakers: will be ready to ship immediately if fare is paid,' and this was followed by another telegram giving references as to the ability and experience of the workers."

To all a reply has been telegraphed that no men are needed in Chicago at present. In several instances was added, "Is occasion arises will advise later." The City Employment company of Detroit wired that it had 500 men in readiness for Chicago.

"Fred K. Buckminster, superintendent of the Metropolitan detective agency, has hired all of the men for the Employers' association. He said yesterday:

"We are importing men from all parts of the country, but we have our own agents, and although we have been swamped with offers from bureaus in every city in the country, we have accepted none of them."

"I have put at least a hundred of these men in the waste basket, not even taking the trouble to reply to them, and I don't think we will have to rely upon them at any time. I have two hundred men coming into Chicago in the morning."

Warns Applicants to Keep Away.
"At the office of the Employers' company a different view is taken. All of the telegrams have been replied to. F. W. Job, secretary of the association, said yesterday: 'In every case we have replied to these telegrams, because we don't want these fellows coming in here when we have nothing for them to do. We have enough men to do our work, and I understand, plenty in reserve.'"

ROCKFORD NINE WON THE GAME

POOR INFIELDING LOSES FIRST GAME OF JANESVILLE.

SOLBRAA, A BRIGHT STAR

Ruhland and Larson Pitched Well for Locals—Team Will Be Strengthened.

Had the Janesville players had a longer opportunity to practice together and become better acquainted with each other's game, the score of yesterday's contest might have told a different story. As it was, the Drexels won by three runs the score being nine to six. Janesville was weak at third and short on the infield and had the pitcher the support he ought to have had. Janesville would have won. The batting records of the two teams showed Janesville far the superior, however costly errors on the part of the locals gave the game to Rockford. The team which represented Janesville, however, showed up particularly well for the first game of the season without any practice to speak of. A few changes in the infield and general toning up of the whole nine will work wonders.

Infliedling Work Poor
This was the first game of the season and some of those who played yesterday had not had a baseball in their hands this year and the Janesville team had not been together before. The Drexels have been practicing for a number of weeks and had played two games previous to yesterday's contest. "Hinkley, the Milton twirler, who was to pitch, gave out just before the game commenced and Ruhland, captain of the team, quickly changed the positions of the players about and himself went in the box for four innings. Though he struck out two men and allowed but one to walk, the work of the infield was poor and eight runs were made.

Solbraa's Good Playing
Larson pitched the last five innings and succeeded in keeping the Rockford men down to two hits and one run. His left-hand drops with little speed fooled the Rockford batters and two were struck out. Solbraa, the new first baseman, a former northern league man, was the star of the game. He made one home run, two two-baggers and a safe hit. At his position on the initial bag he showed skill and his playing was natural. He covered much ground and saved a number of wild throws from players in the infield. He will undoubtedly be one of the pillars of the Janesville team this summer.

Will Be Strengthened
A game will be arranged for next Sunday and by that time the local nine will be changed to a stronger fighting machine on the field and a better aggregation of batters. Cal Broughton was unable to get here yesterday, but Manager Larson has received word from him that he will surely be ready to enter the game next Sunday. Frank Broughton will probably be secured in the field and Partner of Beloit may be signed for third base, which position he negotiated last year with success a number of times. Hinkley will train hard during the week and will be in condition to pitch. The teams lined up as follows:

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, May 1, 1865.—For Chicago. Quite a large number of our citizens last night took the cars for Chicago to attend the funeral ceremonies there today. From some unexplained reason the sleeping car, which was to have been furnished, was not on hand, much to the disappointment of those who wanted to go.

Discharged From Arrest.—The twenty-five gentlemen arrested a number of days ago, at the instance of Judge Noggle, on the instigation of a libel suit, have been discharged from the custody of the sheriff at the direction of the plaintiff. As we understand, this does not interfere with the prosecution of the suit.

The News.

We have news from Newburn which gives more clearly than anything hitherto received, the spirit which actuated Sherman when informed that his agreement with Johnston was disproved. Like the true soldier, he is, went with alacrity to the work of compelling the unconditional surrender of the rebel army. The worst thing that can be said in the affair, we think, is that the wily Breckenridge played it too fine on words for the general.

With the fall of Mobile our forces got large quantities of munitions and cotton—20,000 bales of the latter.

The Kentucky rebels have surrendered to Gen. Hobson and the state is said to be free of armed traitors.

The rebel leaders showed great skill in the manner in which they removed the gold from the treasury at Richmond to the Danville railroad in the night before the evacuation. Guards were placed along the entire route from the treasury to the depot, with orders to allow no wagon to leave from its course. The number of kegs of gold was thirty-four. One keg was placed on each wagon with a guard of four men, walking after each, to watch the property and the driver. A confidential clerk was also in the wagon to look after both the guards and the driver. Trenchholm, the secretary of the treasury, staid at the treasury, until the last keg was sent off, and followed it on foot. At the depot he specie was loaded into two cars, and four of the principal officers of the department were detailed to each car, and rode with the treasure.

CARICATURE SKETCH OF CLARENCE S. DARROW

Clarence S. Darrow has been retained to defend the labor leaders in the present great Chicago teamsters' strike who were indicted by the April grand jury. He also has been appointed by Mayor Dunne to take charge of all traction litigation of Chicago in the move for municipal ownership of street railways. Mr. Darrow is a noted lawyer and author. He is of the Tolstol school of mild anarchy. His book "Resist Not Evil" is along this line of thought.

VERY CONSIDERATE JUDGE.

Was Willing to Let Condemned Man Hang at Any Time That Served Him.

Representative Keno, of Kentucky, tells of a considerate judge in his state who passed sentence on a man convicted of murder, relates the Philadelphia Public Ledger. The judge said:

"Mr. Dodson, the jury says you are guilty of murder, and the law says you are to be hanged. It is my wish that you and all your friends on the river know that it is not I who condemn you; it is the jury and the law. Mr. Dodson. At what time, sir, would you like to be hanged?"

The prisoner made answer that it was a matter of indifference to him, and that he was prepared to be swung off at any time. The judge continued:

"Mr. Dodson, it is a serious matter to be hanged. It can't happen to a man but once in life, unless the rope should break before the neck is broke, and you had better take all the time you can. But since it makes no difference to you, you may hang four weeks from to-day at 12 noon, but you may have a good dinner first."

"AUTOS" IN ASTRONOMY.

Motor-Cars Fitted Up with Accessories for Taking Observations of New Stars.

In an article in La Nature, M. Touchet tells us that automobiles are now being used by astronomers, and he speaks of the new vehicles as "automobile observatories." It appears that they are being fitted up with all the accessories necessary for astronomers who wish to make a special study of shooting stars.

Balloons have been tried for the observation of these stars, but the results obtained are not satisfactory, and it is believed that the automobiles are destined to render great services.

In 1903 experiments were made by French astronomers who wished to study the Leonides. M. Maurice Farman and H. Chretien went by automobile to Anthon-la-Plaine, leaving M. Touchet in the observatory at Chevrouse. Since then great improvements have been made in the vehicles themselves and in the means of transporting the accessories.

California's Ebony Forest.

It is believed that ebony will thrive in certain parts of California, and some trees from northern Mexico will be planted in Butte county as an experiment.

CAL BROUGHTON LANDS BURGLAR

AFTER A DESPERATE ENCOUNTER AT EVANSVILLE.

HE EMPTIED HIS SHOT-GUN

Into Rear Window of Baker Hardware Store and Then Fought Hand to Hand.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Evansville, May 1.—Evansville was the scene of a battle royal last night between two desperate thieves, Cal Broughton, city marshal, and Albert Blunt, night watch. The victory lay with Broughton and Blunt and one of the robbers was killed up in the Evansville look-up the worse for wear, while the second man escaped and is probably making tracks for a better climate where he is sure of a better reception. The battle, which lasted for some few minutes, took place in the rear of F. A. Baker's hardware store and the two men caught in a trap by Blunt and Broughton fought desperately for freedom, using the implements and tools as weapons of defense in their hopeless contest.

About One O'clock

It was shortly after one when Night Watch Albert Blunt saw someone scratching matches in Baker's store. He quickly summoned City Marshal Cal Broughton and plans for the capture were made. Stationing Blunt at the front of the building, Broughton proceeded to the rear window, which the robbers had used for an entrance, and at a signal Blunt flashed his light into the store. The two burglars immediately started for the rear exit, where they were met by Broughton with a revolver in hand. Seizing any weapon handy to overcome the marshal by the rush. Seeing that did not intend to surrender, Broughton opened fire with his revolver.

Desperate Battle

The two men replied with a hail of tools and anything handy they could throw. Broughton responded with a shower of bullets, none of which, however, hit the mark. Then the men made a dash and one of them, a tall, burly-looking individual, came within reach of Broughton, who knocked him down three times before he subdued him. The other slipped away in the darkness.

Town Aroused

The noise of the shooting meanwhile had aroused the residents in the neighborhood, but no one arrived on the scene until after the fight was over. Broughton landed his man in jail where a search revealed that he had no firearms. It is probable that he might have made things interesting, as Broughton stood in the dim light and would have made an easy target for bullets. Broughton took chances when he made himself a target and deserves much credit for his plucky work.

Is Very Sullen

In the look-up at Evansville the man was very sullen and refused to give his name or say anything of his occupation. He scowled at the reporter and city marshal. He is over six foot tall, is dark and smooth shaven. He has a desperate look. He was later taken to Janesville, where his wounds which he received in the fight will be examined.

Hails From Rockford

Janesville, Wis.—Axel Dalquist is the name given by the burglar and his home, according to his statements, is in Rockford. He is said to be a deserter from the U. S. army and a jail-breaker badly wanted in Milwaukee. Chief Bargeron of the Rockford police force came to Janesville this morning in response to a message from Marshal Cal Broughton, who with Bert Baker of Evansville and the prisoner arrived here at an early hour. The Rockford official failed to get any useful information from Dalquist or to connect him with any of the crimes perpetrated in the Illinois city recently.

Is a Nervy Customer

Marshal Broughton gives his prisoner credit for being one of the nerviest customers he has ever encountered. The officer was standing on a ladder laid horizontally across a hole low below the rear window and when ever Dalquist showed his face, as he frequently did, unloaded a charge from his six-cartridge repeating shotgun. The watchman was firing into the front of the store. While hurling drawers and other implements at their enemy in the rear the burglars took the precaution of counting the number of shots he fired and when they numbered six and they knew the weapon had been emptied, Dalquist shouted to his companion to come on and buried himself on the window and onto Marshal Broughton, who fell through the rung of the ladder but was able to extricate himself and grapple with his prey. The two, locked in tight embrace, rolled over and over in the alley, the officer raining blows on his opponent whenever he gained a temporary advantage. The burglar's companion did not pause in his headlong flight to render his companion any assistance. Marshal Broughton finally had his man to rights and seized him by the throat, nearly choking him before he would surrender.

Had Razors in Pocket

Sometime afterward the marshal discovered powder marks on his own face. Although he does not remember it, it seems probable that the burglars took a shot at him while he was conducting the siege. They had gathered up a number of shears and razors and were making for the show-cases where the revolvers were kept when surprised at their work. Dalquist had over a dozen of the shaving knives in his pockets at the time he was struggling with the marshal and it is strange that he did not draw one of them. When later on his pockets were examined these implements and a baseball were discovered but no sign of a gun of any kind was found. He told the turnkey at the jail, however, that the only thing he didn't understand was why he didn't catch Broughton when he fired, or words to that effect.

Early Beaten Up

The marshal discovered one of his fingers "cut" and "bruised" during the

the appearance of a man who has received the worst beating of his life. He will be presented in court tomorrow morning.

Besides these matters and the regular routine business, nothing of a startling nature is promised.

BURGLAR'S PLAN NIPPED IN BUD

Police Discovered Evidence of Another Attempt to Break Into Nolan Brothers' Store.

Saturday night another attempt was made to break into Nolan Bros. grocery-store on the Corn Exchange. The burglar had removed the putty from a rear window-pane when his handiwork was discovered by the police who visited the alley shortly after midnight. Suspecting, no doubt, that a watch would be kept for him, the man did not return to complete the job.

APRIL WEATHER AN IMPROVEMENT

OVER THAT OF MARCH—SOME THOUGHT DIFFERENT.

AVERAGE TEMPERATURE ROSE

Eleven Days of Sunshine, Ten Days of Unsettled Weather and the Rest "April" Days.

Though Janesville people were much dissatisfied with April weather early in the month, the extraordinary beauty of the March weather must have spoiled them for the April record shows a fairly good average temperature—50.6—while more than ten days without rain or clouds at this season of the year could not have been expected. Eleven days were placed on record as pleasant, ten as unsettled and eight as not agreeable. The average minimum temperature for the thirty days was 39.6 and the average maximum was 61.7. These figures show an increase in temperature over March in the first case of 6.6 degrees and in the second of 9.4. The general average rise was 7.2. The highest point reached by the mercury was 79 where it floated Friday last and the lowest point was 31, the place to which it fell on the seventh. Twice, on the sixth and on the sixteenth the quicksilver stood on the freezing point. Following is a tabulated record of weather conditions and high and low temperatures for April:

BASE BALL SUFFERS BECAUSE OF CIRCUS

Infant Residents of the Third Ward Held a Delightful Circus on Saturday.

One of the grandest, greatest, largest and best circuses that has ever visited Janesville was held in the side yard of W. W. Watt's residence last Saturday afternoon. Despite the fact that Mr. Watt was not prepared for the large and varied aggregation, he performed his work like a veteran and the small members of the volunteer circus troupe went home satisfied with a liberal supply of animal crackers, candy and popcorn after a most enjoyable afternoon. It was really a surprise party on Mr. Watt. He had laughingly told some of the little inhabitants of the neighborhood he was going to have a circus in his backyard on Saturday and they believed him and came. Meanwhile Mr. Watt had prepared to go to Beloit to see Northwestern play Beloit college at baseball. In fact, he was ready to board the car, forgetful of his wonderful circus, when he was suddenly called home by a hurry-up telephone call. Here he found the whole infant population of the third ward assembled waiting for him. A tent was rigged up of sheets and the performance began. Animal crackers, popcorn and candy furnished the chief attraction, but William Watt's circus will long be talked of by the youthful residents of the third ward.

ASKS FOR MONEY TO HEAL HIS FEELINGS

Wallace Taylor Sues an Edgerton Woman for Five Thousand Dollars.

The Madison Democrat has the story of a suit commenced in the circuit court there of Wallace Taylor against an Edgerton woman, in which a Milton woman's name is used. Wallace Taylor wants $5,000 damages from Martha L. Babcock of Edgerton for alleged defamation of character. He filed suit for slander in the circuit court at Madison. He alleges that his good name and reputation were injured by the making public of a letter by the defendant addressed to a Miss Florence Burdick at Milton. The statements in the letter, he says, were false, scandalous, defamatory and untrue. He further declares that the letter contained a statement to the effect that he was secretly married to a Mabel Campbell in Rockford in 1903, that the bride did not want her people to know about the marriage, and other statements. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant in her letter to Miss Burdick also charged him with keeping company with a Norwegian girl, besides making intimations which reflect upon his character and good name. These statements, he declares, to be absolutely untrue. L. E. Gettle is the attorney for the plaintiff.

TREACHEROUS PEAT BOGS.

A Growsome Tradition About the Battle of Solway.

There is an ancient and growsome tradition connected with the story of the battle of Solway. This battle was fought on the "debatable" borderland between England and Scotland in the year 1542. A troop of horsemen heavily mounted and heavily armored was put to rout. In the panic of their flight they ran headlong into a peat bog. The bog trembled beneath the feet of their chargers and opened and swallowed them, horses and horsemen, arms and armor. To support this tradition more than 200 years later, at the end of the eighteenth century, a digger of peat came upon one of the troops—a man and his horse, both in complete armor and preserved from total decay by the antiseptic qualities of the peat. Another story of that peat bog of the Solway frith is that in November, 1771, the bog, saturated with the moisture of heavy rains, rose, swelled and burst like a torrent, sweeping along with it trees and houses and destroying thirty small villages.

Many thousands of acres of peat are found in the north German lowland. In Ireland estimates place the lowland bog area at 1,576,000 acres and the highland area at 1,254,000 acres. Russia is said to have 9,700 square miles of peat. Several million acres are in Norway and Sweden, France and Holland. The United States and Canada also have extensive tracts. Peat has been used by artisans for ages in the manufacture of tools. By burning peat the old steel workers produced the finest grades of iron and steel on account of the intensity of the heat produced and the absence of anything detrimental to the metal. The elastic and keen Damascus swords are believed to have been made by the use of peat.

Peat itself is the product which results from the partial decay of vegetable material—mosses and other marsh plants—which grows and dies in boggy places where the water stands. It is chiefly composed of sphagnum, or bog moss. This moss has peculiarly absorbent properties owing to the cuplike arrangement of its parts, which take up and hold water like a sponge. Sphagnum continues to grow after its roots have become detached from the ground. These two qualities explain why bogs occasionally slide from their old beds.

Burial Armor and Shrouds.

The custom of sewing up a corpse in flannel originated doubtless in the act of parliament, 18 and 19 Charles II., which was passed for the encouragement of the woolen trade and required all bodies to be buried in woolen shrouds. Two amending statutes were passed—1678 and 1689—requiring that the flannel be delivered to the priest stating that the requirements of the law had been carried out; otherwise penalties were incurred. These acts were repealed by 54 George III., although long before that time the penalties for noncompliance with the law had ceased to be enforced. During the operation of the acts for burying in woolen the law was sometimes evaded by covering the corpse with hay or flowers, notification of which is sometimes met with in the parish registers. Burial in armor was not at all uncommon in the middle ages and was considered a most honorable form of burial. Sir Walter Scott in "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" thus refers to it: Seemed all on fire that chapel proud. Where Roslin's chiefs unclothed lie, Each baron for a sable shroud. Sheathed in his iron panoply.

NEW WHITE HELMETS "ARE JUST DREAMS"

Everybody Pleased with Rare Taste of Council in Devising Beautiful Costumes for Police.

"Aren't they just dreams?" This was the universal sigh of admiration uttered by a thousand pedestrians as they stopped to admire the new white helmets, donned by the police in accordance with the order of the council, for the first time this morning. The dull grey light that filtered through the rain-clouds accentuated the pallor of the snowy domes and visibly heightened their effectiveness as the wearers swung down the thoroughfares with quickened step and buoyant heart. The old archaic canes had disappeared and in place each carried a natty little billie of the latest pattern. And the smart new uniforms—how the brass buttons would have gleamed and sparkled in the sunlight—had there been any! Yes, the helmet and the entire transfiguration was indeed a dream. It had no foundation in reality. It was May 1 but there were no white helmets—no billies. The mandate of the august city council had been disregarded just as many had expected it would be. Comic opera stunts do not appeal to that sense of dignity and fitness of things which belongs to the military.

Mr. Hawkins is a brakeman on the St. Paul road and works through here on the Chicago-Madison passenger train that arrives here each morning at half-past ten and is well known among the railroad men and others in the city. # Trotting Dates For The Season

The Grand Circuit Meet- ings—"Big Ring" Races Begin July 24--Harness Campaign Opens In May--The "Novelty Plan" Events, Etc.

The light harness racing season is almost at hand. The first races will, as usual, be held in May, and the dust raising time destroyers will be gradually "trained on" for the important meets of midsummer.

The opening race meets are held on the small tracks because the leading horses are never in shape for fast going before June. July is the most important month for final preparation and the season climaxes in August and September. More trotting and pacing races are held in these two last named months than in the rest of the year combined.

Grand Circuit Opens July 24.

This season the grand circuit opens July 24. Each of the ten circuit tracks has six days of racing allotted to it. As usual, the sport on the "big ring" begins at Detroit. Cleveland gets the next meeting, July 31 to Aug. 5. The succeeding grand circuit meets occur

"Novelty Plan" Races.

With races on the novelty plan and a backward training season the southerners will not have so very much on the northerners in the early closing stakes. As a matter of fact, winter training is a greater advantage to young and untrained horses than to the seasoned campaigner. There is about as much chance that the latter will get too much work when wintered in the south as that the former will not be given sufficient preparation when trained in the north.

Do not forget that the individuality of the trainer has fully as much to do with getting a horse to the races in good condition as does the weather. The trainer accustomed to getting his horses ready in the north is very apt to overdo the fast work the first year he takes a stable south. It is the trainer who pays careful attention to the preliminaries, the getting of his horse well muscled and in perfect physical

MAJOR DELMAR, TROTTER, THAT MAY DEFEAT LOU DILLON THIS YEAR.

Major Delmar is now the property of C. G. K. Billings, also owner of Lou Dillon. Mr. Billings will match the two great trotters in a special race on one of the grand circuit tracks. Many horsemen believe that the Major will equal and possibly lower the season Lou Dillon's record of 2:07 without wind shield. Lou Dillon covered a mile with wind shield and pole in 1:58 1/2 in 1902. Under the same circumstances Major Delmar covered a mile in 1:59 1/2 in 1903.

In the order named: Buffalo, Aug. 7 to 12; Empire City (Yonkers, N. Y.), Aug. 14 to 19; Itasca, Mass. (New England Breeders' association), Aug. 21 to 26; Providence, R. I., Aug. 28 to Sept. 2; Hartford, Conn., Sept. 4 to 9; Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 11 to 16; Columbus, O., Sept. 18 to 23; Cincinnati, Sept. 25 to 30.

The big closing meets of the season not included in the grand circuit are those at Lexington, Ky., and Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 8 to 14 and Oct. 15 to 28, respectively.

Archibald Hahn, the noted sprinter, formerly of the Michigan university track team, is now a member of the Milwaukee Athletic club. It is needless to add that he is the "shining light" of the organization.

Hahn will compete in many of the "open" meets this season, and it is the

An Animal Story For Little Folks The Meddlesome Giraffe

There were two giraffes who kept house together in the desert of Thibaut. They were a young couple who had recently been married, and because of their inquisitiveness I have called them Adam and Eve.

They were short and sleek and spotted, with necks no longer than a pony's, for in the days I speak of the giraffes ate grain like a horse and did not bother with trees.

One day Eve came running to Adam, saying, "Oh, Adam, I've found the greatest bargain."

"What is it, my dear?"

"It's a lovely box of marshmallows, all done up in silver paper, left here by that last band of English soldiers. It will last me a month at least, and all for nothing."

"Well, I shan't touch it. I don't believe in eating strange foods," said the husband decidedly.

"Oh, try a piece with me, dear," she pleaded. "You know you won't refuse your Eve."

Saying which she took out a yeast cake from the box and ate it and gave him a piece also.

"It's pretty good," said both. "Makes you thirsty, though," said she after eating nearly the whole box.

Both took a large drink of water at the spring. But, terrible to relate, the yeast began to work and lifted their heads higher and higher and strained their poor necks all out of proportion until they stood eighteen feet high from toe to crown. "Oh, dear, I wish we hadn't eaten them," said Eve.

"Yes, you'll have to get your supper off a tree to-night. Serve you right; you tempted me," said Adam sulkily.

And from that day to this the giraffe has had a long neck. Don't meddle.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

An Animal Story For Little Folks Why Pete Wasn't Sold

Mr. Benson was plowing the ten acre field, and his wife came out to bring him his dinner. She brought Benjie, the six-month-old baby.

The day was warm and Benjie felt fast asleep, so his mother laid him on a quilt in a fence corner where some bushes shaded him and sat down to chat with her husband.

Then old Pete was hooked to the plow and started on a furrow. He went two or three yards, straining at the plow and pulling it along bravely.

RIGHT IN FRONT OF OLD PETE'S HOOPS! then he stopped short, and no coaxing or threatening could make him lift a foot.

"A mule's the meanest thing on earth," shouted Mr. Benson. "I'm going to sell this one. Hi, there! You Pete!" And he slapped the lines on Pete's back till they rattled. But the mule only shrugged his shoulders.

"Oh, the baby! The baby's gone!" cried Mrs. Benson.

Old Pete was forgotten, while the farmer and his wife both searched for the child. And where do you think they found him? Right in front of old Pete's hoofs! If the mule had made one step forward he must have stepped on the baby. If he had even managed to step over him carefully, he must have dragged the plow upon him. Benjie's mother hugged the mule—and I suppose it was the first time anybody ever petted him in his life. But you may be sure that Pete was not sold. He is growing old on Mr. Benson's farm, and Benjie is getting big enough to ride him now.—Worcester Post.

Diseases of House Pets.
Our household pets are susceptible to a far greater variety of diseases than most people imagine. Parrots are known to be peculiarly susceptible to a disease so peculiar to themselves that it is called from the Greek word for parrot, "psittacosis." A number of fatal cases in human beings of what was at first supposed to be a malignant influenza pneumonia were in Paris traced to the bacillus at present thought to be causative of the parrot disease. A certain proportion of parrots are known to die from tuberculosis. Cats are known sometimes to have tuberculosis, and that they have in many cases been carriers of diphtheria and other of the ordinary infections directly and indirectly is more than suspected.

Beneficial Bird.
Uncle Sam has been studying hawks. Of 124 stomachs of marsh hawks which were examined, 45 per cent. of the hawks had been feeding on mice, 18 per cent. on other small mammals, 18 per cent. on reptiles, frogs and insects, and only a very low percentage on poultry and small birds. We do not find that this bird is so very destructive to quail and partridges after all; and it is under this latter supposition that they find opportunity. Uncle Sam concludes that the marsh hawk is a beneficial bird and that its presence and increase should be encouraged in every possible way.

CHAPTER XII.

THE next morning the sun rose red and hot above the hills. Not a breath of air stirred, and a close sultriness pervaded the atmosphere. Laborers going to their work mopped their brows and looked anxiously at the clear, deep blue arch of the heavens for a glimpse of a cloud that might perchance grow larger as the day advanced and spread itself before the burning sun, but above the horizon not a speck of white could the eye discover.

Josiah Taunton, his homespun shirt of linen thrown open at the neck and his broad belt drawn down over his eyes, came through the woods with quick strides, his feet crunching down the dry twigs with a crackling sound as he walked. A young robin, having injured its wing in falling out of the nest, fluttered and chirped in his path, and the mother bird, frantic, called sharp, shrill instructions from a tree near by. With an imprecation Josiah kicked the named bird out of his path, killing it, and strode on without even a backward look. Nor did he appear to see the mother bird, who in her pain and anguish swooped up and down wildly in all directions, or to hear her shrieks of agonizing sorrow.

Mattie's of importance having taken up his time, it was late in the day, almost at the hour of noon, when Taunton, homeward bound, reached the spring brook that ran by the door of old Adam Browde, the goldsmith. Removing his hat and wiping the beads of perspiration from his heated face, he knelt upon the bank and, making a receptacle of the hollow of his hand, proceeded to quench his thirst. The goldsmith, having observed him from the window, hastened toward him with a pewter mug.

"Good morning, Master Taunton. Happen thou'll not get enough in thy hand," he said. "Hot days make dry throats."

"Thank thee, Adam,"

Taking the mug, Josiah filled it and raised it to his lips, draining the last drop.

"I had a tankard of ale at the tavern, but that papist of a Frenchman, who doth intrude himself here dangle after my cousin, Margaret Mayland, with an eye, I trow, to the possession of her estate, lounged about the rooms with such an air of insolent effrontery, walked past me once or twice so close he fairly trod upon my toes, acting, forsooth, as if he desired me to take open offense at his bad manners, clanked his sword and appeared so anxious for all to admire his suit of gaudy finery that I was almost vomited with disgust and man, I could scarce get breath until I had put a distance between us."

The goldsmith, evidently busy, had resumed his seat on his bench and was followed closely by Taunton, who now on the subject of his favorite grievance was not inclined to go on his way until he had unbosomed himself to his neighbor; so, taking a lounging position in the doorway, he prepared to go on with a recital of his wrongs when suddenly he made a sharp exclamation, his glance having fallen on a finely wrought chain of gold from which was suspended a small cross that was being forged together by the skilful hands of the goldsmith.

Adam raised his eyes to Josiah's face in surprise. "Hath pain, Josiah?"

"Nay," he answered sternly, "but anguish for thee, Adam, that thou in this ignorance hath been induced to handle a charm of evil magic such as thou holdst in thy hands."

"This wicked evil?"

The goldsmith, having completed his task, held up the chain in bewilderment.

"I'll send the wicked gawdaw home by Christopher."

room, that was half kitchen, half workshop. At first he walked about nervously, casting timid glances at the golden trinket on the bench, now glittering in the warm embrace of a sunbeam that had fallen on it; then, as if forcing himself to sudden and brave determination, he stood erect, found a piece of paper, laid it on the bench and procured a pair of tongs, with which he lifted the chain and cross, placing them upon it. His hands trembled. Adam's face was white and his breath came in gasps as, barely touching the edges of the wrapping, he hastily made it into a small parcel.

"Other talismans I had," he muttered. "An' all the while I was thinking that my lumbago came from cold! Ah, woe, woe! Such evil days as we have fallen out! Good Lord, ha' mercy, I pray, an' keep us safe."

CHAPTER XIV.

UNDER a tree that spread its leafy branches over the grass that stretched out before the house the young mistress of the Mayland farm, wearing a dress of thinnest white linen, sat with her lover on a wooden bench. Both were silent, La Fableau watching with interest the endeavors of a young robin that was struggling with a large ground worm and Margaret absorbed in her own thoughts, that seemed from the pensive and serious expression on her face to be far away and troublesome.

Although large clouds had spread themselves over the sky, obscuring the sun, the heat of the afternoon seemed to exceed that of the morning. Not a leaf stirred; the dogs lay motionless in the shade, panting, and the air was close, surcharged with heat and heavy stones, touched his hat respectfully, calling to them that relief was in sight, as the clouds were forming for a thunderstorm.

"An' from the looks of yon black cloud methinks 'twill be a heavy one, good Giles," La Fableau replied; then, turning to Margaret, who at the interruption of her meditation had drawn a quick breath, half a sigh, half an expression of unpleasant thought, inquired, "Hath lightning terrors for thee, sweet?"

"Nay, not now, when thou art here," she said gently, laying her hand on his sleeve with a caressing touch, "but last night, Godfrey, I had a dream of evil omen that, I confess, hath disturbed me. I dreamt that enemies by stratagem took thee from me; then came telling me that thou wert in this place and that to tempt me. Wild-eyed, my hair hanging down my back and giving loud piercing shrieks of distress, I followed their directions only to find upon my arrival that thou wert not there. Oh, Godfrey, 'twas an awful night! An' the terror of it hangs over me today."

"Bon Dieu," he exclaimed, pressing the small hand affectionately, "how art thou changed from the gay, laughing Margaret who but lately dwelt in Paris! Away with such notions, sweet! 'Tis this dull village, filled with scowling Puritans, that wear on thy nerves, I do protest. I trow, Margaret," he continued more thoughtfully, "a man whose lot hath been to be much at court as mine hath been many sides of life, but beshrew me if I have ever before encountered such ignorance, intolerance and narrow minded bigotry as doth here exist. Oftentimes when lounging about the inn and poring over the newspapers and arguments of these sorry wights I fain would call for another bumper in an endeavor to raise my sinking spirits lest I do myself harm from sheer depression."

He laughed lightly at his jest, and Margaret smiled.

"Then the manner of my cousin Josiah Taunton and his mother doth grieve me," she continued softly, "they make their avoidance of me so plain, and Hetty, whom I love, is forbid my house. Each day I receive an added slight from them, one day this, another that. Only this morning one of the shepherds brought me word that two more lambs were stricken with the disorder that is spreading about among the sheep, causing much loss and damage. So when I was dressed I crossed over to mine aunt's house to ask of her the remedy she hath for the malady. To my civil greeting she returned a surly nod, did not invite me to enter and replied that she knew of no cure for the trouble among my sheep unless it was constant prayer. Then she advised me with sneers and grim insinuations to ask God on my knees to lift the evil out of my heart and to scatter the black and evil spirits that had to all appearances obtained control of me."

NEW PHOTOGRAPHIC PAPER

Claimed in Paris to Produce Pictures in Colors, But Found by Government Expert to Be a Fraud.

Alvey A. Ade, assistant secretary of state, is an expert photographer, as nearly everybody knows. No man in the United States, perhaps, is better posted on the new wrinkles of the photographic art, says Ira E. Bennett, in the Chicago Daily News. Mr. Ade investigates every new discovery and determines for himself just what the thing is worth. He was greatly interested in the recent announcement from Paris of the invention of a photographic paper which would faithfully reproduce colors. It was hailed all over the world as a great invention, solving the mystery of color photography. Mr. Ade sent for some of the paper tested it and found it practically a fraud.

The claim made for the paper was that a photograph taken through an ordinary monochromatic lens, printed upon this paper, would develop a series of colors true to nature, varying in perfection with the degree of skill employed in the art of printing. Mr. Ade's experiments and tests proved that the paper did not in any way solve the great problem of obtaining colors by the transmission of their wave-lengths through a lens and fixation upon paper or any other substance. The French paper was a gelatinized material, the gelatine being laid on in three coats of different colors. These gelatin films or coats are sensitive to certain intensities of light. If a strong, bright light is employed the effect is a blue-white color upon the paper. If a medium light is used the resulting color is yellowish-brown, and if a faint light is used, dark green is the result.

The combination of these three colors—light blue, yellow-brown and dark green—is the composition of an ordinary landscape, which consists of trees and foliage (dark), houses and roads (yellowish-brown), and the sky (light blue). With consummate skill and ingenuity the French inventor had evolved a paper which, if artfully used on an ordinary landscape, would in fact reproduce the colors in strikingly faithful fashion. But the claim that the invention had solved the problem of color photography was easily perceived to be absurd and needed only a slight change in the composition of the picture to become patent.

For example, it was shown that the maker of colored photographs by the new method should never permit a white or black cow to come within range of his lens, for the result in the completed photograph would be a blue and green cow respectively—something that has not yet been observed outside of the mysterious realm of poster work. Color photography is still a dream.

ALL OR NONE WOULD GO.

Colored Party with Pigs Gives Colored Party with Dignity the Indignant Go To.

"Bixby!" bawled the brakeman on the Mooresville line, and the train slowed down in front of two or three houses and five country negroes standing close to the track, relates the Charlotte (N. C.) Observer. There was a central figure in the party. He was a man of middle age, and the others looked as if they were his family. The man had under each arm a little pig or shoat, and they were resting tranquilly in their places. The negro had on most gay apparel, but the most striking thing about him, outside the pigs, was a blue celluloid collar. He made for the steps as the train came to a standstill, but the brakeman intercepted him.

"You can't take dem pigs on board," said he.

"Hucome?" asked the would-be traveler.

"Cause you can't, dat's why."

The negro boiled with rage.

"I'd like to know w'y dese pigs is objectionable," said he, in an aggrieved tone. "Tee ca'y'ing 'em an' dey ain't goin' to 'sturb nobody."

"Drap dem pigs an' git on ef youse gwinter," said the brakeman, sharply, signaling to the train to start. "Wese got no time to 'scuss dis."

But the old man turned doggedly on his heel to the other members of his party.

"Go on wid your durned ole train," he called over his shoulder. "Ef de pigs don't go nelder do I go. An' dat's right."

The train pulled away, and the negro with his pigs still reclining reposefully in his arms stood and regarded it with a look of supreme disgust.

Temporarily at Fault.

The amateur burglar paused, irresolute.

"So far, I've got along all right," but I've forgot what the instructions say I must do in case the windows has patent fastenin's on them. I'll have to look that up."

Here he took a copy of a popular magazine out of his pocket and turned his dark lantern on an illustrated article entitled: "How a Flat Is Looted Without Disturbing the Inmates. By a Reformed Burglar."—Chicago Tribune.

Advantage in Kansas.

"Bally's father said her beau should never step foot in the house again," said the Kansas girl.

"Then I suppose she had to give him up?" interrogated her chum.

"No, indeed. She entertains him in the cyclone cellar."—Chicago Daily News.

Making Allowances.

Bridget—I can't stand the missus, sir.

Master of the House (sarcastically)—It's a pity, Bridget, that I couldn't have selected a wife to suit you.

"Sure, sir, we all make mistakes."—Smith's Weekly.
